

CONTENTS

The Marine Biological Association of Hong Kong .....	v
Asian Marine Biology — Editorial Board .....	vii
Instructions to Authors .....	viii
Editorial .....	xiii
Analysis of the dinophyte (Dinophyceae) flora of the Russian Far East and adjacent waters of the Pacific G.V. Konovalova .....	1
Epilithic coccoid marine cyanobacteria from Hong Kong rocky shores S. Nagarkar .....	15
Coral transplantation onto a stabilised pulverised fuel ash substratum Katherine K.Y. Lam .....	25
Diurnal physico-chemical variations in Hong Kong rock pools Benny Kwok Kan Chan .....	43
Algal and sessile invertebrate recruitment onto an experimental PFA-concrete artificial reef in Hong Kong Katherine K.Y. Lam .....	55
Multiple mark-release-recapture experiments on Metapenaeus ensis (De Haan) (Crustacea: penaeidae) in a tidal prawn pond in the Mai Po Marshes nature reserve, Hong Kong S.F. Leung and Brian Morton .....	77
The importance of lateral expansion space to growth and survival of the green mussel Perna viridis (L.) S.Y. Lee and S.G. Cheung .....	101
Host chemodetection by the crinoid associate Harrovia longipes (Crustacea: Brachyura: Eumedonidae) and a physical characterization of a crinoid-released attractant Igor Eeckhaut, Didier VandenSpiegel, Alain Michel and Michel Jangoux .....	111
Historical decline of the mangrove gastropods, Telescopium and Terebralia in the Ryukyu Islands and Taiwan: Evidence from shell middens Shun-ichi Ohgaki and Taiji Kurozumi .....	125

Contents

Phytoplankton population dynamics, nutrient changes and red tides in the southern waters of Hong Kong

J.H. Liu, C.S.W. Kueh and M.J. Broom ..... 137

The detection of ecological stress in a sub-tropical macrobenthic community in Hong Kong

P.K.S. Shin ..... 149